Children's Fine Floral Pageant

BRILLIANT EVENT
TAKES PLACE THIS SUNDAY
AT MISSION BEACH.

One of the most elaborate and handsomely decorated floats in the annual children's floral parade and bathing revue to be held at Mission Beach this Sunday afternoon, August 22, will be one entered by the Mission Beach chamber of commerce. Decorations and personnel of children in costume, riding on the float, are in charge of Harry K. Turner, who promises a big surprise.

Edw. A. Kiekham, manager of the Mission Beach Rolling Skating Rink, will have one of the most novel floats in the great pageant, and Leola Schirol and Rita Finn of Ocean Beach have entered a Chinese float, while many other entries have been made for floats of especial design. Children of all ages have been rushing in their entries for costumes and there will be many smaller ones in bathing suits. The annual event promises to surpass all previous pageants in splendor and variety and numbers.

DAMAGES SOUGHT FOR ALLEGED INJURIES

Charging that her 13-year-old son had been injured through the negligence of a bus driver, Mrs. Mary Baker filed suit this week in Superior Court against the San Diego Electric Railway Company, asking judgment for $5,000. The boy was standing in front of the Point Loma High School, April 20th, the complaint recites, when an approaching motor bus struck him. He incurred a fracture of the foot and other injuries.

AUTO COLLISION SUIT

A damage suit was filed this week by Elmer P. Cook against R. G. Bloss for $5,000.50. Their autos collided at Voltaire and DeFoe streets, Ocean Beach, on May 31st and Cook alleges he received severe injuries. He asks $5,000 compensation and $99.50 for damages to his car.

Kodak Films—Froide—Bacon St. MAXIMUM EFFICIENCY MARKS CONDUCT OF OFFICE BY SHERIFF BYERS.

Of all the officials of the county, Sheriff James C. Byers is probably the only one who is conducting his department with practically the same force of assistants as were there when he took office eight years ago, and the reason for this, in the words of Sheriff Byers, is "using good business practice and placing the men where they would produce the maximum of efficiency."

The work of the sheriff's office has increased over 100 per cent in the past years, but with the exception of two additional men placed at the border the office personnel has not been increased. Instead, the office routine was readjusted and divided into three departments, the civil, the criminal and the jail. At the head of each department Sheriff Byers placed a man who was fitted to care for that department and he was made responsible for the conduct of it. In this way the work of the sheriff's office is conducted without friction and the maximum of efficiency is obtained.

Before Sheriff Byers took office the county government had no regular deputies placed at the governmental border at Tia Juana. Whenever a fracas occurred at that point a telephone call was sent in for a deputy to straighten out the tangle. One of the first things which Sheriff Byers did upon assuming the office was to procure two more deputies, and these were placed on duty at the border. They are there day and night every day in the year and have been for eight years past.

Sheriff Byers' knowledge of business before entering the service of the county, his education, his legal knowledge and the training which he had as a deputy under the late Sheriff Ralph Conklin and the knowledge which he has gained while in office during the past eight years, make him well equipped to conduct the office of sheriff for which he seeks reelection for the next four years.

EUGENE DANEY, JR. HAS EXCELLENT QUALIFICATIONS FOR JUSTICE OF PEACE

Eugene Daney, Jr., candidate for the office of Justice of the Peace, is a native born San Diegan. Mr. Daney, Jr., received his early education in the city schools and later attended and graduated from the University of California in the class of 1913. Since that time he has been engaged in the study and the active practice of the law, having for the past nine years been associated with his father. Mr. Daney's experience as a lawyer qualifies him for the office which he seeks. He seeks the office on merit and as the office is a judicial one he makes no pledges other than to administer the laws faithfully and impartially and in accordance with the oath of his office which he will have to assume, if elected.

NEWS NOTES FROM RADIO STATION K F B C

Community Night Programs from KFBC are going to be a popular feature from this station. They are given every Thursday night from 8:00 to 11:00 p. m. They will be of a semi-amateur nature, the programs being arranged and entertainers furnished by near by towns.

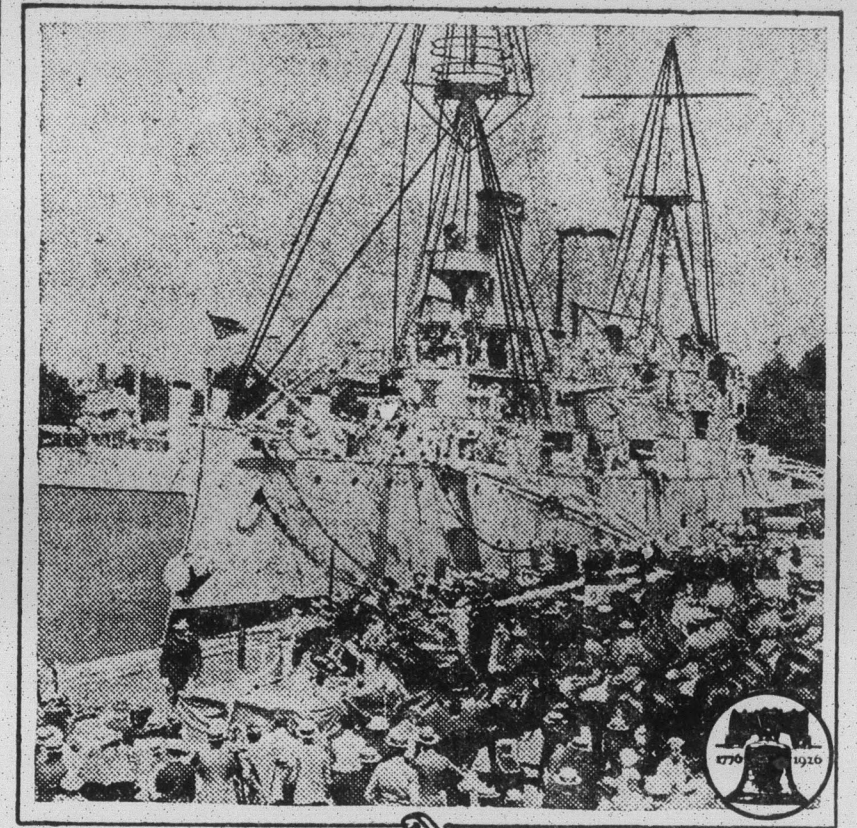

Chet Boone, program arranger for KFBC is sending out a call for all kinds of radio entertainers and artists. Chet says he wants to meet every person in the county who aspires to be a radio entertainer, being in need of good talent from the popular and novelty entertainment combinations to the best of the semi and classical artists.

Welch's Orchestra will be heard from KFBC every Monday night from 9 to 10 p. m. and possibly later. For real jazz dance music listen in each Wednesday at 10:00 p. m. and hear Hartzog's Jazz Aces, colorful syncopation and that's no pun.

Chet Boone, program arranger for KFBC announces that for possibly another week there will be no regular schedule of programs published, but that radio fans will find the station on the air with a program, usually from 8 to 10:00 p. m. each night except Sunday.

DO YOU BELIEVE JOHN WANAMAKER WAS RIGHT WHEN HE SAID—

"Continuous advertising, like continuous work is most effective. If there is any enterprise in the world that a quitter should leave alone, it is advertising. Advertising does not jerk, it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day, year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power. To discontinue your advertisement is the same thing as taking down your sign. If you want to do business, you must let the public know it. I would as soon think of doing business without clerks as without advertising."

Kodak Finishing—Froide—Bacon St. COMPLETE HARMONY URGED AMONG OFFICIALS IS CONNELL'S WATCHWORD.

The lack of complete harmony between the district attorney's office and those of the sheriff, the coroner and the city police in their fight against lawbreakers is one of the points on which Stephen Connell, candidate for district attorney, is waging a vigorous campaign throughout San Diego county. The district attorney will be elected at the primary, August 31.

As proof of his contention, Connell points to the report of the 1924 grand jury, which charged the present district attorney with failing to work with other county officials, and, in some instances, showing a lack of interest "in cases arising outside of his office."

"The district attorney's office should not be an opportunity for self glorification," declares Connell. "It should be an office which is always willing and able to work with other officials in the punishment of crime, no matter where or by whom the offender is caught. Any other course lays the district attorney open to suspicion of attempting to boost his own reputation rather than to be a servant of the people striving to do his duty in the most efficient way."

According to the committee of citizens in charge of Connell's campaign, a big majority of the thousands who voted for Connell four years ago when he ran as a "write-in" candidate for district attorney, have pledged themselves to vote for him again, while other thousands who supported the present district attorney four years ago are now out for Connell.

POSTMASTERS IN CONVENTION

Postmasters of California and Nevada are holding their annual state convention on August 20-21 in San Francisco. Postmaster James E. Power of San Francisco is toastmaster at the banquet, and prominent speakers will include Senator Shortridge and Congressman Clarence F. Lea, who will speak upon Civil Service legislation for postmasters.

AUTO ACCIDENT ON VOLTAIRE STREET

T. H. Diffendorfer, of the Naval Air Station, and Sam Danoski, another sailor living at 417 Market street, were cut and bruised when the automobile in which they were riding, driven by Diffendorfer, and one driven by Clifford Sherman, 205 Twenty-sixth street, collided on Voltaire street, last Saturday night. Diffendorfer was treated at the police emergency hospital and later was arrested by Patrolman Donnelly on an aggravated charge of reckless driving. He was released on $250 bail. Danoski was taken to the naval hospital. Sherman, in reporting the accident to the police, said Diffendorfer was driving on the wrong side of the street and his machine struck Sherman's. Diffendorfer blames Sherman for the crash in his report.

H. S. JOPLING'S FRIENDS DECLARE HIS QUALIFICATIONS AS CONSTABLE CANDIDATE

Howard S. Jopling, who seeks the office of constable for San Diego township in the coming election, is well known in San Diego, where he came after his discharge in 1919 as captain of infantry in the United States army. He became employment manager for the Savage Tire Company. Later he organized the Employment Specialists, now in the Spreckels building. In 1921 he was appointed deputy sheriff and secretary of the Criminal Department, which position he held until 1924, and has been a member of the force since.

The increase in population that San Diego has enjoyed during the last several years has added greatly to the work of all the county offices. It requires a young man, active and wide-awake, to keep up with this work and to grow with it, say the friends of Mr. Jopling, who also state that he is a worker and a man to be relied on at all times. His law enforcement work well qualified him for the office he seeks, and his past work shows he believes in fair and impartial enforcement of the law. If elected he promises to continue to serve the people of San Diego as faithfully and efficiently as he has in the past.

Eighty-Five Cents A Year For Concert

MUNICIPAL BANDS
SUPPORTED BY TAXATION
LEGAL IN CALIFORNIA

ELKHART, Ind., Aug. 13.—Taxation in support of Municipal bands and orchestras is now legal in 26 out of the 48 states in the Union. It is shown in the survey recently concluded by the Conn Music Center. California is among the states that have passed this sort of legislation and movements for similar legislation are now under way in Arizona, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky and New Mexico. Iowa was the first state to pass legislation providing for the support of municipal bands and the law in Iowa, as in a majority of the other states which have a band tax law, provides that cities may levy a tax for the purpose of establishing and maintaining municipal bands or for paying some existing band to furnish concerts.

It is asserted that the important virtue of a band tax law is that it distributes the expense evenly and impartially—everyone enjoys the music and everyone pays his share. The large number of contributors makes the cost of each one exceedingly small. In Long Beach, Calif., for instance, they have band concerts every day but Monday, except for a two weeks' vacation in three spring, and it costs the citizens, even with the unusually large number of performances, only about 85 cents per year. In Clarinda, Iowa, the cost is about 35 cents per capita, which expenditure pays for about fifty public concerts presented throughout the year.

SUCCESSFUL OPENING NEW SAFEWAY STORE, INC., AT OCEAN BEACH.

Safeway Stores, Inc., opened their store No. 431 last Saturday, August 14, at 5054 Newport avenue, Ocean Beach, with a complete market, including grocery, bakery, meat, fruit and vegetable departments. Everything proved strictly up-to-date as a delightfully clean and sanitary market for the convenience of the public of Ocean Beach.

The Safeway Stores, Inc., "California's Leading Grocers," have just celebrated the first anniversary of their entrance in the field of business in San Diego county. On August 2, 1925, this company commenced the operation of twenty retail, cash and carry grocery stores, located in the city of San Diego and adjoining towns and communities. Since that date eleven additional stores have been opened and are now operating making a total number of thirty-one stores at this date.

The Safeway Stores offer to the communities in which they operate—first of all—service, courteous, willing, intelligent service of experienced grocery men who are interested at all times in the needs of their customers and who know the merchandise they are selling; merchandise of quality, carefully selected and thoroughly tested before being offered to the public through these stores; uniform prices at a fair basis for value; offering the same buying opportunity to customers in any community or neighborhood served by a Safeway Store.

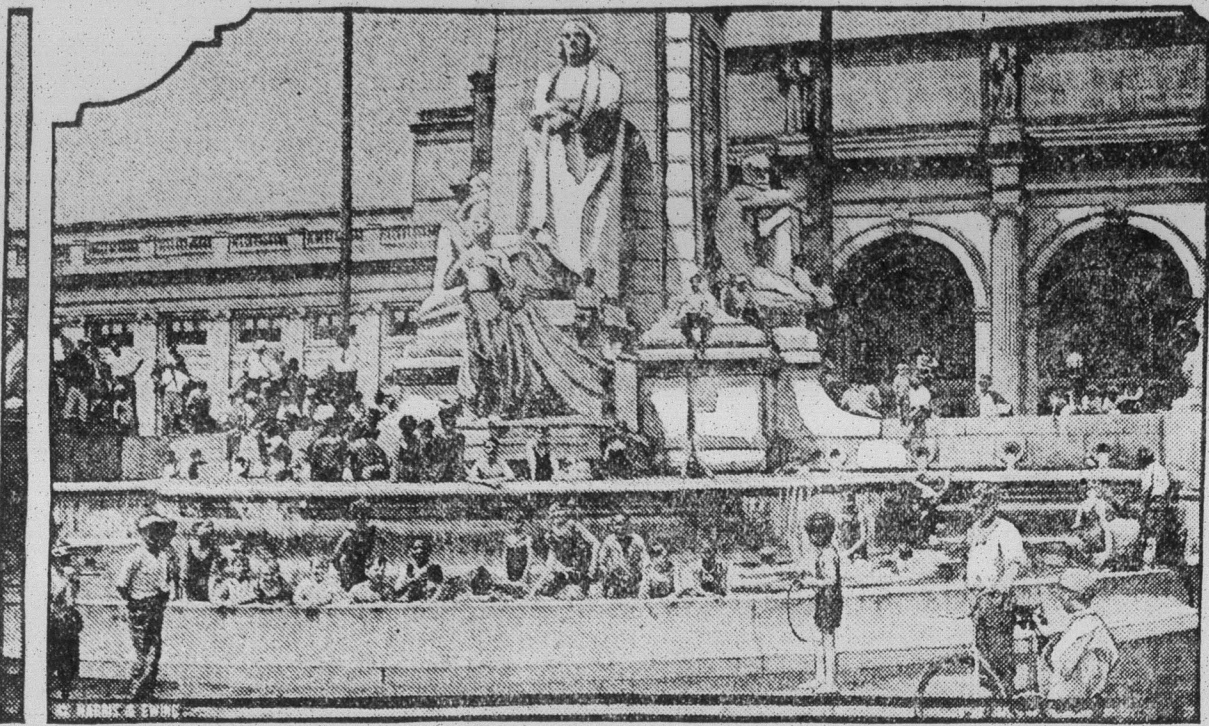

The immense buying power of the organization of which these stores are a part, makes it possible for them to sell to the consumer at prices which insure full 100 per cent value for every dollar spent. Merchandise is always fresh on account of the quick turnover of stock and cleanliness and neatness of store and stock is evident at all times.

"The customer must be satisfied" is the underlying principle of all transactions, and any piece of merchandise sold in a Safeway Store is covered by the "money back" guarantee under any circumstances.

Safeway Stores have become a part of the business life of this city and county and will contribute their part to the continued growth and development of this section of the state.

Warm Weather Privilege for Boys of Washington

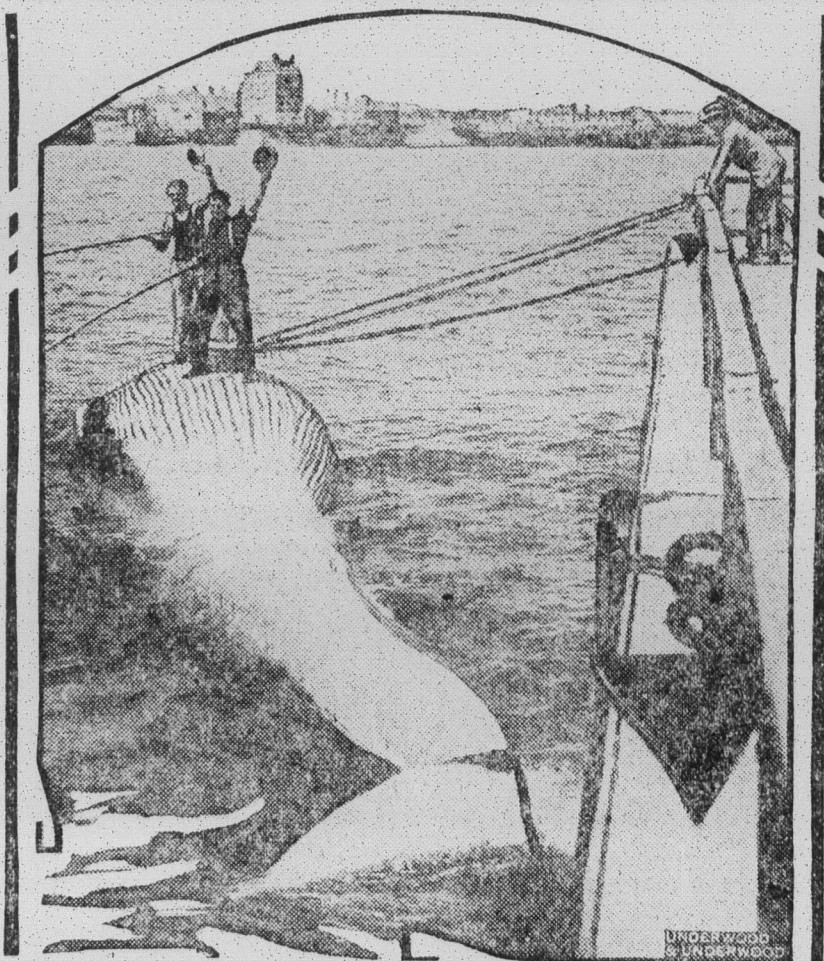

When Policeman Clark of the Sixth precinct, Washington, chased a flock of bathing youngsters from the Columbus monument fountain pool in front of the Union station he was told by his captain that he had no authority to do so. Result—boys by the hundred enjoying the cooling waters.

President's Adirondacks Camp Is Well Guarded

Long Beach, Calif., Gets a Whale

The arrival at Long Beach, Calif., of a 60-foot sperm whale, towed to port by a steam whaling vessel, turned that popular summer resort into a whaling station for a time. The sea monster was killed off the Catalina islands and weighs close to fifty tons. The photograph shows fishermen using the dead whale as a fishing pier.

Invade Mexico to Save Ranches

American ranchers living in the Imperial valley of Southern California invaded Mexico, but with peaceful intent to assist in stopping a break in the levee of the Colorado river thirty miles south of the border in Lower California. The break promised to do great damage to American ranches if not stopped at once.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

The July term federal grand jury was impaneled in San Francisco on the twenty-sixth of the month and held its first session the same day. The jury was called a week early to hear important evidence presented by Assistant United States Attorney General Mabel Walker Willebrandt. During her present visit to the coast Mrs. Willebrandt has held a series of conferences with United States District Attorney George J. Hatfield on prohibition enforcement. According to Mrs. Willebrandt the government's law enforcement personnel will be strengthened by weeding out those unfitted by previous training for law enforcement work; and when men fitted by character and given adequate previous training are secured the Volstead Act can and will be successfully enforced.

Nearly seven thousand persons were killed or injured by automobiles in this state during the first six months of 1926. This was revealed in a report issued by the State Division of Motor Vehicles, showing 699 killed and 6,282 injured during the half year period. Of the injured, 1,968 were classified as "seriously injured or crippled." More than fifty of the dead were victims of hit-and-run drivers. The metropolitan districts, as usual, had the heaviest percentage of accidents. Los Angeles and San Francisco alone reported 159 deaths.

Discovery of the fossil remains of what is said to be a pre-historic mammal approximately 25 feet long has been made on a ranch near Elk Grove, south of Sacramento, according to a statement by C. E. Swisher, owner of the property. The find was made following an explosion of dynamite 15 feet below the surface of the earth while Swisher was digging a pit for installation of an irrigation pump. The blast unearthed a fossil segment 6 feet 4 inches long and said to have carried the toes of an ancient monster.

Charles King, Hanford, Kings county, builder of Tulare Lake Railway and one of the best informed men in Kings county on the resources of the Tulare Lake Basin, is engaged in arranging the transportation of this season's crops, and says that in his opinion the total yield of grain in the lake bottom lands this year will approximate 500,000 sacks, of which all but about 40,000 will have been grown on lands under well irrigation. Of the total crop about 80 per cent will be wheat.

A. B. B. Deming, proprietor of an abstract company with offices in the Placer county court house claims the distinction of walking a distance equal to the circumference of the earth during trips to and from his office during the past 32 years. Deming, who lives on Aeolia Heights, estimates that he has walked the round trip an average of 400 times each year, which would make a total of 25,600 miles in the 32 years.

Now comes a book asking California school children to puzzle over the high cost of good radio sets, the speeds of various automobiles and how far the mighty Babe Ruth can hit a baseball. Holding that modern youngsters of school age are tired of working arithmetic problems dealing with the dull doings of A and B and the distance between Y and Z, textbook publishers have asked the State Board of Education to approve questions of a snappier nature.

The trustees of the Galt Joint Union High School have called for a bond election for the purpose of issuing and selling bonds to the amount of $500,000, to be used in reconstruction of the high school, which was completely destroyed by fire two years ago. The election for the sale of bonds has been voted upon several times, but each time has failed to carry.

Plans and specifications for the new mammoth Pacific Fruit Express plant which is to be built at Antelope, about four miles south of Roseville, are now being prepared by company engineers. A contract for $1,500,000 for steel used in the new plant was recently let to a San Francisco firm. The new plant will number about twenty-five buildings, some of which will be 600 feet in length.

More peaches will be harvested in the Yuba Valley this year than ever before, according to reports coming in from the various orchards. All peaches have borne well this year, the early peaches exceptionally well and now the J. H. Hales are doing their bit to swell the total. The late peaches also give promise of a large yield.

Yuba county made a net gain of $237,625 in the assessment rolls for 1926 over 1925 it was shown in the annual report filed by County Assessor Tom E. Bavan. The total roll of the county shows $16,608,745. The gain in personal property assessments over 1925 is $27,715.

Warning sportsmen of the state that overfishing is exterminating steelhead trout in the streams of California, Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford University, delivered a plea for conservation of the state's resources of wild life at a public meeting of the Monterey county chapter of the Isaac Walton League of America last week.

A double execution at San Quentin penitentiary on October 8 has been announced by Warden Frank J. Smith. Two men, both convicted of murder in Los Angeles county are to satisfy the law by hanging.

More than $150,000 is to be spent by the A. D. Porter estate heirs in modernizing the Byrns hotel building at Woodland.

Commodore P. Murray, 73, prominent resident of Three Rivers, and the first white child born in Tulare county, died recently.

A 2,000 pound sunfish caught in Catalina waters by Zane Grey, the novelist, has been mounted for scientific purposes.

Premiums totalling $14,000 will be awarded to winning exhibitors in the various departments of the Stanislaus County Fair at Modesto, September 13 to 18.

A high pressure water system to combat with the fire menace, with a steam pumping engine on the banks of the Russian river, is being installed near Guerneville.

Playground equipment for the new Exeter kiddies' park, the first in the city, has been donated by the Exeter American Legion Post working with the Women's auxiliary.

John H. Espey, one of the earliest settlers in northwestern California, is dead at the age of 87. He had resided in Sonoma county for more than 60 years. His parents came across the plains in 1849.

The California State Highway Commission has filed suit to condemn land owners by Clark Burnham between Truckee and Tahoe City, claimed to be necessary for the state highway leading into Lake Tahoe from the Victory highway.

Several buildings belonging to a mining company near Mariposa were destroyed recently by a range fire which swept within a few miles of Coulterville before being placed under control by the concerted efforts of residents of the town.

The Hanford Board of Trade at Hanford, has taken up the movement for having all fruit shipped from local packing plants carry the label Grown in Kings County, and has sent a letter making a request that all shippers see that such labels are used.

Congressman Clarence F. Lea will open the Western Sonoma-Marin Cattle Show at Valley Ford August 19. Lea will talk on legislative matters affecting farmers and will also show the part cattle have played in the development of this part of the state. The show will be continued for three days.

The largest local conference of Seventh Day Adventists in the world will be held at Glendale, August 26 to September 5, inclusive, according to an announcement made by President O. O. Bernstein. Erection of a pavilion to seat 6500 delegates and the pitching of 625 tents will be started immediately.

The "vanishing American" isn't vanishing at all in California at least, it was disclosed by L. E. Ross, chief of state bureau of vital statistics. Due to excess of births over deaths, Ross declared that Indian population of the state is increasing at rate of 100 redmen per year. California Indians now number 17,870, Ross said.

One hundred and forty-four pure-bred ewes and rams were cremated, and other property of the total value of $20,000 was destroyed in a fire which swept the Cadanasso tract north of Esparto, Yolo county, eighteen miles from Woodland. The fire started from a harvester working on a small tract of grain which was also destroyed.

The June bride crop for 1926 totaled 6,750, breaking all previous California records for the month of marriages. It has been revealed by L. E. Ross, director of the state bureau of vital statistics. The marriage total last month broke Ross' preliminary estimate of Dan Cupid's activities by 250 and shattered the existing record, which was 6,412 weddings in June, 1925.

If poor handwriting is a sign of genius, as the popular saying has it, California is just now nurturing a generation of remarkable boys and girls. A. C. Olney, state commissioner of secondary schools, announced that examination of 500 pupils in representative high schools produced an average of only 53.2 per cent in penmanship. The test requirement was 62 per cent.

Twelve tomatoes that fill a cantaloupe crate and weigh fifteen pounds is a record that has been achieved by F. D. Brown of Bakersfield. They are without flaws or blemishes, having at no time suffered from the blight that has affected other tomatoes of the country. They were grown in a small plot in his backyard where he daily gathers three gallon bucketfuls from eight or ten plants. The seeds are of a special variety.

C. E. Berry, Santa Barbara county horticultural inspector, is concealing the bitter taste of squirrel poison strychnine with soda, and adds starch, syrup and glycerine. It is reported that the ground squirrels have grown wise, and that whenever they detect the characteristic flavor of the poison they fill up on green stuff instead of seeking water. Drinking water after eating strychnine is fatal, but with the vegetable feed afterward, the rodents are said to survive.

Marking the opening of a new era in Yosemite motoring, the Merced-El Portal link of the park highway was dedicated at Clark's mill, Mariposa county, Saturday, July 31. In the presence of high state and automobile officials, the road, built by the efforts largely of 400 San Quentin and Folsom convicts was opened for use.

Plans are on way for a two-story and basement fireproof club building for Alameda County American Legion. It is to be erected in Adams Park, between Grand avenue and Harrison street, Oakland, and will cost approximately $200,000.

KILLS MATE WHO DIVORCED HER AND THEN SLAYS SELF

Woman Dresses as Man to Get in Hotel Where Ex-Husband Lived.

Chicago.—When Russell LaFraugh divorced his wife, Helma, he doomed himself and her, for a few weeks later she killed him and then killed herself. Mrs. LaFraugh, dressed in male attire to gain entrance to the bachelor hotel where her ex-husband was living, shot him as he slept. She then turned the revolver on herself.

The divorce was granted upon the husband's plea that the wife was cruel. His bill alleged that on one occasion she threw a coffee pot at him and on another occasion she struck him, making his lips and mouth bleed and that when he bent over a wash stand to remove the blood she attempted to choke him and pushed him over backward into a bath tub. Her age was given as forty, his as thirty-eight, and they had no children. Mrs. LaFraugh was granted a settlement of $800.

But Love Doesn't Die.

Since that time she had on various occasions displayed her love for the man who had been her husband. After the divorce she started a rooming house and he continued at his employment of chauffeur and took residence at the Bachelor hotel.

When LaFraugh did not report for work his employer telephoned for him and a clerk went to room 264 to call him. When he received no response he opened the door with a pass key and found the two bodies.

LaFraugh's body was in bed, clad in pajamas. A bullet hole was in his forehead. The other body—at first believed to be that of a man—was on the floor, a revolver near the right hand.

Find Other Is Woman.

Lieut. Edward Murphy responded to a call and it was then learned that the other body was that of Mrs. LaFraugh. It was recalled she had registered at the hotel as J. R. Newton. She had her hair bobbed boyish style.

Shot Him as He Slept.

A few weeks ago and she wore a dark palm beach suit and a gray cap as she approached the clerk. She held a lighted cigarette in her left hand as she signed the name of Newton with the right.

The clerk never doubted that the new guest was a man, Mrs. LaFraugh was given room 217, near that of her former husband. Apparently the woman had waited her opportunity of getting into his room, and to do so without making noise she left her shoes in her own room.

The postscript of a recent letter she had written to him was found in the room, it having been torn from the rest of the paper and it read:

"Daddy dear: Please tell the man on at night to be sure and call you when I call in the morning. With all my love to you, daddy."

It was signed "H" and a row of X's followed the "H."

Mistakes Husband for Flock of Blackbirds

Frederick City, Md.—Mistaking her husband, Anderson E. Eicholtz, sixty-five years old, a farmer, for a flock of blackbirds, Mrs. Eicholtz fired a shotgun at short range into a cherry tree, the charge striking the man in the abdomen, legs, arms and chest. A tin bucket he had partly filled with cherries protected him somewhat.

Eicholtz arose early and his wife did not know he had gone into the tree. Hospital physicians said the patient's condition could not be determined for several days.

Sadder But Wiser

New York.—A little lady from Duquesne is sadder but wiser. Lucille Lee, fifteen, came out of the West to be a Cinderella, having read a lot about Mr. Brownings. She saved up car fare and, disillusioned, sought the Travelers' Aid society.

Insure Players

Oakland, Calif.—If anything serious happens to the "Keystone Kids" the Oakland baseball club will collect $100,000. It has insured James Reese, twenty, second baseman, and Lynford Lary, nineteen, shortstop.

Thunderstorm Map of the United States.

"It is not the sound of thunder that is heard in the radio set, but the actual wave that is propagated by the electric spark, or lightning flash," says B. Francis Dashiell, writing in the Radio Broadcast Magazine. "Thunder is merely the sound of the air as it rushes in to fill the space or vacuum made by the passing of the spark. Such a wave will be heard simultaneously with the visibility of the flash, but ahead of the sound of the thunder. Electromagnetic waves travel at the same speed as light waves, 299,725,000 meters, or 186,000 miles per second, while sound travels but approximately 1,000 feet per second. There are certain regions which produce more thunderstorms than others, and there are certain weather conditions, as shown by the daily weather map, favorable to the inception of thunderstorms. Purely local storms of a sporadic character may be caused by local regions of warm air within a high air pressure area and predominating clear sky. These give rise to local static only, last but a short time, and seldom cross over much territory.

Have Much Static.
"There are thunderstorms which occur chiefly in the regions of southerly winds, either to the southeast or northeast of a low air pressure area, probably caused by local topographical conditions and consequent upward deflection of the warm surface winds, all of which stimulate the formation of large cumulus clouds. These storms have considerable static associated with them, not entirely due to the storm itself, but also to the meteorological elements of the central low air pressure area to which they are attached. Some of these disturbances will be of the nature of a mere thundershower while others will be intense thunderstorms.

"Even after the passing of the storm, static will exist as long as the electric influence of the central 'low' is felt. The most severe of all thunderstorms occur south or southeast of a central low air pressure area along a line or front of a great mass of cooler and drier air which is slowly descending from the upper atmosphere and underrunning or lifting up the warmer and moister air ahead of it.

Lightning Affects Set.

"Much static predominates, not only from the central low area itself, but from the mechanical action of the vigorous air currents. Lightning associated with such storms is very severe and spreads out over a large area, affecting radio receivers over many miles, often over a whole state or more. Thunderstorms occur in nearly all parts of the world, but the number decreases rapidly as we pass from the equator toward the pole. In the tropics, there are many places that average a thunderstorm for nearly every day of the year, while in the Far North but one or two storms may occur in the course of several years. Fewer storms occur over the ocean than over land, and mountainous regions have far more than the level plains. In the United States, the largest number occur over the Gulf states. In New England there occur but approximately one-fourth of the thunderstorms experienced along the gulf, while at certain Pacific coast sections the proportion is very small as such storms are rare."

Attach Adapter for Low Waves on Super

There are many thousands of super-heterodyne receivers in use, but practically all of them have been built for the reception of wave-lengths between 200 and 550 meters. Some of the large eastern stations are now transmitting regularly on the very low wave-lengths, and very often these stations can be picked up on the low waves when it is impossible to hear them on the regular wave-lengths.

The adapter shown is very simple and can be wound on the form of an old variocoupler, if you have one handy. A 3 by 3 bakelite or cardboard form can be used for the secondary winding and a 1 by 2 1/4 tube for the primary. Space-wind 12 turns of 24-gauge DCC wire for the primary and the same number of turns for the secondary.

A large number of "supers" have a center tapped loop and the secondary of the adapter is arranged so that you can connect the center loop post on the set to it while the leads from the outside posts of the adapter go to the posts on the set that formerly connected to the outside leads on the loop. Where a two-lead loop is used, the center post is not used. The antenna and ground leads go to the two posts connected to the primary of the adapter.—Philadelphia Record.

Radio Invention Aids Deaf Children to Hear

Highly successful experiments have been made with a new apparatus for overcoming deafness, designed by a civil engineer of Hull, England, named Calvard, according to an official British dispatch from Rugby. More than 80 per cent of the children in a Hull deaf and dumb institution have heard speech and music for the first time as the result of the invention, which has the appearance of a small wireless receiving set without aerial or ground connection, the dispatch said. The results are achieved by transmission of sound to the inner ear of deaf patients. It does not succeed with all sufferers, but with a large proportion.

Summer Is Best Time to Improve Radio Antenna

This is the best period of the year in which to make improvements in the antenna system—for the purpose of getting good results throughout the summer and bettering your usual records in the fall and winter when the signals from distant points are stronger.

Why not try shifting the direction of the aerial just to compare results? Sometimes this change makes quite a difference—and the comparison of results will be very interesting, states the service department of the Freed-Eisenmann Radio corporation.

When you are overhauling your antenna system, be sure to clean off the insulator. This past winter, with its clouds of soft coal smoke, was a most severe one. The grime with which your insulators are fairly sure to be covered is a high-resistance conductor of electrical currents, consisting essentially of carbon. This means that some current at least is leaking across the insulators if they are dirty. If this is the case, and it probably is, your antenna system cannot approach its normal efficiency, because some of the energy which it absorbs is being carried away from it to the antenna support and so leaking into the ground instead of travelling down the lead-in wire to your set.

If you are using insulators of fiber with an unpolished surface, the soot and grime may have become so imbedded in the surface that it would be almost impossible to properly clean off. In this case you will avoid further loss of efficiency by replacing the present insulators with glass ones or with porcelain ones, which have a highly glazed surface. Insulators of this kind not only refuse to absorb dirt and moisture, but they are also much easier to clean. Soap and water with a stiff brush will do the trick. If the antenna wire is badly corroded, it should be replaced.

Ohms Add Up for Fixed Resistance in Series

When connected in series resistors always add up their respective values, even if they are different. When connected in parallel the total resistance of the group is equal to the reciprocal of the sum of the reciprocals of the individual resistors. If they are all of equal value the group resistance is equal to that value divided by the number in the group.

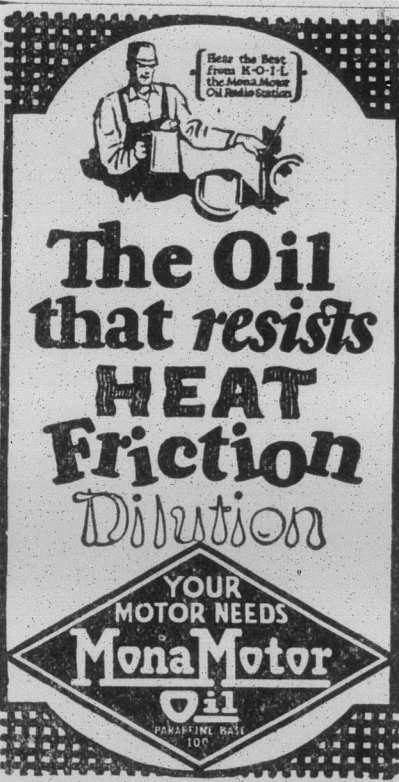

Thus three resistances of 100,000, 250,000 and 50,000 ohms, connected in series, have the effect of a single 400,000-ohm one; in parallel they are equivalent to 29,411 and a fraction ohms. Three 100,000-ohm resistances in parallel equal 33,333 1-3 ohms.

GET-AWAY

You must try Champion Spark Plugs to prove how the hotter, more intense spark they produce increases the rapidity of your get-away. Why be left behind when the traffic signal flashes when a set of Champions will put you out in front?

The sheriff's office of San Diego County and the police department of the City of San Diego have a fine record in catching criminals.

BUT WHAT GOOD DOES IT DO TO CATCH YOUR CRIMINAL IF YOU CAN'T GET HIM PROSECUTED?

It is common knowledge that the police of San Diego often complain of the district attorney's failure to back them up in their work. The 1924 Grand Jury reported that the district attorney does not work harmoniously with the sheriff's office.

IT TAKES TEAMWORK TO WIN AGAINST CRIMINALS.

BALBOA THEATER

—Vilma Banky, the "Hungarian Rhapsody" of the screen, is once more appearing opposite Rudolph Valentino in "The Son of the Sheik", his new starring photoplay, which comes to the Balboa Theatre for one week starting Friday.

Under the direction of George Fitzmaurice, Miss Banky appears as Yasmine, a desert dancer who wins the love, then the hate of the young tribal chieftain. The story crammed with romance and adventure, is said to afford Valentino and Miss Banky even greater emotional opportunities than they had in "The Eagle", the last picture in which the appeared together.

Manager H. L. Hartman announces one of the biggest bills for Balboa Theatre all next week, ever seen in San Diego, all in celebration of West Coast Greater Movie Season.

On the stage, Fanchon and Marco will offer their most spectacular presentation, "Roman Idea," sending in fact, the entire company of forty members direct from Lowe's State Theatre, Los Angeles.

Gus Reed, bass singer formerly with Grauman's Egyptian prologues, Stadler and Durfin, adagio team, Leontine Nolet, dancer and the Sun-kist Beauties are featured in the stupendous spectacle.

The musical theme and accompanying arrangement is in the capable hands of George Stoller, guest conductor and his Greater Band.

The ninth chapter of "The Radio detective," one of the most entertaining stories depicting the wonders of the radio in scientifically searching out crime, ever shown upon the screen, will be an added attraction for Friday at 4 o'clock and Saturday at 1:30 and 4 P. M.

The Junior Matinees, an established institution with Balboa Theatre, continue to delight the younger folk with carefully selected entertainment from 12:30 to 2:30 o'clock every Saturday afternoon.

CABRILLO THEATER

"The Savage" is Earl Hudson's latest contribution to the cause of good, clean comedies. First National is proud of it, and so is Cabrillo Theatre, where it will be presented for one week starting Saturday.

It is rare that a picture as clean-cut and swift-moving as "The Savage", comes to the screen. It is absolutely free from anything but the freshest and most entertaining sort of fun.

Ben Lyon, whose popularity is very rapidly putting him in the star class, is featured with the petite and vivacious May McAvoy. The rest of the cast, comprising Sam Hardy, Philo McCollough, Charlotte Walker and Maguire, have sturdy reputations for impeccable screen craftsmanship.

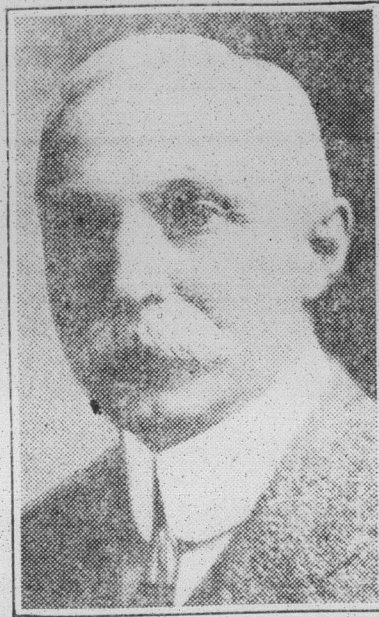

Kinograms and other short reels chosen for their excellence provide other pictured diversion. Musical selections of popular and classical numbers will be played by Raymond Godden at the console of the organ.

FACTS

—The cost of living is 65 per cent greater than in 1913.

—The cost of electricity is less than in 1913.

—Let our Commercial Department show you how to take full advantage of this service.

OF course you do if you are a normal person. You work harder and better when you know promotion will come as a reward for good work and not because of pull or red tape.

Electrical progress in California came from the men and women in the business giving their best because they knew that earnest effort would be rewarded by better jobs.

Most of the leaders in California power companies came up through the ranks by this kind of promotion.

Results prove that this method of rewarding ambition and energy has made electric service cheap, plentiful and reliable. In fact, California people use electricity more freely than anywhere else in the world.

It is confidently hoped that she will be able to return to her home in Ocean Beach at the end of next week.

GREATER MOVIE SEASON

Beginning Friday, August 20, officials of the West Coast Theatres Inc., will announce that they are to launch an exclusive West Coast Greater Movie Season, with all of the 175 playhouses of their extensive chain participating.

The inauguration of West Coast Greater Movie Season is of special interest to the multitude of motion picture patrons, in fact beginning that date through the entire country, the art of cinema and its presentations will take a long stride forward.

West Coast Greater Movie Season is not one of one week's duration. It continues throughout the season. The date selected is merely to call the attention of the public that a new era of cinema entertainment has been born and that it will grow with the following weeks.

West Coast Theatres, from the great first run edifices, the super-neighborhood houses, and suburban theatres to the smallest of their many playhouses, will show an unprecedented array of carefully superlative photoplays, and surround each feature offering with a program of unusual excellence and variety.

Manager H. L. Hartman of Balboa and Cabrillo Theatres is arranging a magnificent program to include Rudolph Valentino in "The Son of the Sheik," for the screen and on the stage, Fanchon and Marco's most spectacular offering, "Roman Idea."

SCHOOL DAYS

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

'BEHIND WOMAN'S SKIRTS'

ISN'T it rather inconsistent now that women have the vote that fashion should deny the more timid of the other sex the protection which was formerly accorded them by the voluminous dimensions of their ladies' costumes below the waist?

Certainly there is nothing smaller than a man who would hide behind the skirts of a woman. We have not much to say for his breadth or his depth. But small as his proportions may be can you imagine how they could be crowded behind what in these days serves for mildy the purpose of a skirt?

But think of the hoop skirt and the crinoline of other days! And that's how it started. For then a man might very comfortably have concealed himself behind a woman's skirts.

To adjudge this expression an index of the manhood of these days would certainly be unfair. For in 20 years there have been men and men. But in these days of other fashions it did not require a great stretch of the imagination to speak of a man who permitted a woman to shield him as hiding behind her skirts.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

AT 21—Arthur B. Reeve of "Craig Kennedy" fame, wanted to be a lawyer.

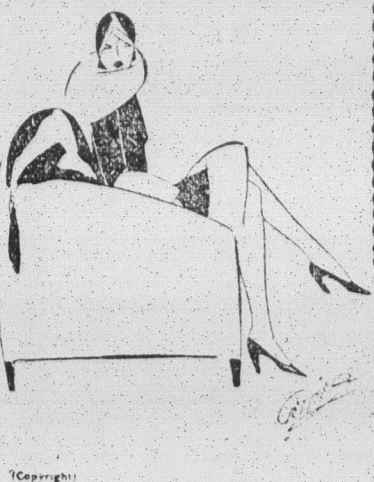

AT THE age of twenty-one I was a junior at Princeton and wanted to become a lawyer, for which I studied at the New York law school after graduation, but never carried it out. The magazines got me away from it, when I became assistant editor of Public Opinion in 1903.

"It was when I was in Princeton that I conceived the character of 'Craig Kennedy.' He was introduced to the world in a story I wrote for the Nassau Lit.—Arthur B. Reeve."

TODAY—Arthur B. Reeve has created the best-known detective in fiction, outside of Conan Doyle's "Sherlock Holmes." His stories written about "Craig Kennedy," a scientific crime detector, have brought him celebrity and the adventures of "Craig Kennedy" have become standard narratives of their type.

A FRIEND

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WE MADE a friend farewell today, And covered him with flowers. There was a preacher there to pray, And one old friend of ours, And his, arose and gently said Some simple things about the dead.

I looked around the quiet room, And every one was there— Yes, hearts had blossomed like the bloom.

That made the chance fair— For Charlie, Eddie, Dick and Jim Had gathered there to honor him.

And millionaires walked down the aisle To sit beside the poor, To hold communion for a while With all that will endure.

The greatness of a city stood And wept for one so greatly good. In life we thought our friend had made A failure out of his, In death we knew how unafraid He faced the life that is— For souls will swiftly mount above When borne upon the wings of love.

There was no pomp of pageantry, There was no roll of drums, But angels crowd the wall to see When such a pilgrim comes— Yes, all God's host arose to say A welcome to a friend today.

THE GIRL AT SHEELEY'S

By HAROLD CARTER

(© by W. G. Chapman.)

BIG JIM TURNER had taken it into his mind to come into Balboa. There was nothing particularly admirable about that little East African coast settlement, which consisted of two dance halls and four gambling establishments, besides the administrator's residence; but the mining camp in the interior did not possess any of these advantages. Besides, Big Jim had just shot and seriously wounded a thieving partner of his, and he had concluded that Balboa was the best place of temporary refuge.

He had counted the money in his pockets. He had four hundred and twelve pounds—nearly two thousand dollars. It had been his idea to spend that in a month of riotous living, at the end of which time, no doubt, his partner having recovered, there would be room for him at the mining camp again.

Slowly he pulled a letter from his pocket and read the writing by the light of the lamp above Sheeley's saloon.

"My dear Sir James," it ran.

"We herewith enclose you the sum of one hundred pounds, which, as we mentioned in our previous letter, was left you by your father, the late baronet. As you are aware, unfortunately Sir Edwin never relented in his attitude toward you, and, though the title has come to you, the estates, which were not entailed, have passed to your younger brother. If we may take the liberty of saying so, there exists no reason why you should not return to England. While society, unfortunately, is not apt to relent toward a man who is a baronet without an income, we have assurance that the parties whom you have affronted are anxious that the affair which led you to expatriate yourself be forgotten."

"Kindly keep us advised as to your circumstances, so that, in case there should be a new heir, or in case of your unfortunate demise, we may be in a position to take measures accordingly."

The letter was signed by a firm of London attorneys.

Big Jim laughed rather hollowly and turned into Sheeley's. The place was packed with mining men and Portuguese traders from the interior, and all were exuberant. The crowd had money to burn, for no poor man could have had business in that part of the coast on which Balboa was situated.

"What the—!" Big Jim began, staring behind the bar. Mechanically his hand went up to his head and came away with his hat in it, a circumstance which surprised him mightily. Behind the bar stood a fair-haired, ruddy-cheeked English girl, polishing glasses, and evidently looking with horror and dread upon the motley crew assembled in the resort, who, to do them justice, appeared in no way malevolently inclined, though one or two of the Portuguese were eyeing her in a passion which she might have found the reverse of pleasant.

The barmaid was an institution all along the East African littoral, just as in the home country; but the type of woman who was to be found in these places was strikingly the reverse of the delicate, refined-looking girl who was serving at Sheeley's.

"Present me, Mr. Sheeley," muttered Big Jim with mock courtesy. But as his eyes continued to dwell on the girl's face he recoiled a pace or two and stared at her in dawning remembrance, and he saw the answering recognition in her own eyes.

"She's my new attendant," said Sheeley, grinning. "Got her through an advertisement in the London papers. I didn't tell you fellows—I wanted it to be a surprise. I guess she hasn't seen much of the trade and thought Balboa was a shade bigger and quieter than it is. She—"

"I didn't ask the lady's history. I want to know her name," growled Big Jim Turner.

"Now, Jim, don't get ugly and I'll tell you," answered the keeper.

But Big Jim pushed him away with a sense of physical nausea. No need to ask further. He looked at the girl again and saw that the recognition was complete. Her face was deathly white, and she was clinging to the counter with both hands, whose knuckles were whiter than her face.

"I suppose you wasn't here when she arrived," said Sheeley. "I thought I'd got a rare 'un when I caught sight of her pretty face, but she ain't no sport at all. I made a mistake, that's all. She drew some trade at first, but she thought she was coming out to be a waitress in a nice, quiet family hotel. Naturally she was surprised, and she's so standoffish—well, it's just a matter of letting her turn to and work out her passage money before she goes."

Big Jim heard the words only vaguely. He had turned and stridden out of the place, and now, outside, he was seeing the past six years of his life in review before him. Behind him he heard the voices of men he knew calling after him in invitation.

Six years before James Turner, the eldest son of Sir Edwin Turner, ninth baronet and a rich landed proprietor, had been one of the most sought-after heirs in England. He had just come home from the university; he was engaged to Lady Mary Hamilton, a charming girl, and the only daughter of his father's oldest friend, whose estates adjoined his own. James

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

BRUSH OFF THE DUST

WHEN the pendulum ceases to swing the clock stops and becomes useless because of some defect, perhaps, in its mechanism or a diminutive cake or clod of dust has wedged itself in the teeth of the wheels.

It is the same with humans. When the invisible miasma becomes clogged, mental and physical activity gradually slow down and discontinue to function.

The winds of indifference and indolence and the gales of hate and envy are constantly stirring up particles of dirt and hindering right thought and action.

Whatever it may be with regard to our local estate, or our failure to progress, if we will soberly take stock of ourselves we may be amazed, on close examination, at the quantity of offending dust we find in our wheels.

Through apathy, mind, body and vision have become impaired to so great an extent that we realize our unfitness to compete with the alert people all about us, who by rubbing and brushing have managed to keep in perfect condition.

To advance and rise in our own estimation and in the estimation of others is the chief desire of every ambitious man and woman.

It is not possible to attain our wishes in this particular, even in a comparative degree, unless we regularly shun the whirling clouds of dust and move steadily ahead in the clean, clear atmosphere of pure thinking and right doing.

To make ourselves worthy in the eyes of others it is necessary to acquire ourselves worthy in the eyes of ourselves.

And this cannot be done until we have searched our body and soul and brushed off every particle of grit that causes disfigurement and holds us back.

It is not always to the swift that victory comes, but rather to the faithful who keep steadily forward, stretching our eager arms toward the heavens and keeping as far away from the grime as it is humanly possible.

In spite of any misgiving you may have as to the result of such a course, read the stirring stories of the lives and struggles of the great men and women who made the light before you were born and left behind them a trail of golden deeds.

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"I have really had all kinds of trouble. After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."

If some good fairy should appear and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose?

Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares.

Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away.

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you the priceless gift of better health.

PARIS HATS SHOW MUCH CHIC; COAT STYLES FOR CHILDREN

IT IS doubtful if the genius of the French for designing clothes shines more brightly in one particular than in others, but it often seems that the things they make for matrons lead all the other achievements in chic. This field of endeavor gives them the widest latitude in choice of materials and in intricate work. In millinery these things, with spirited shapes, play into the hands of the designers and they evolve dignified and beautiful headwear for women of importance. Even in the simpler types of hats they compel shapes and materials to express the poise of middle life.

Paris contributes three hats, out of the four pictured here for matrons, and New York is represented by one. America is not far behind the French type are often finished with bindings and given important trimming touches.

A pretty procession of fall coats for children and the younger girls is ready to pass in review to answer the demand that precedes the re-opening of school. Many of the models for juniors are provided with short detachable capes that button on in several ingenious ways so that the garment will serve, minus its cape, for late summer, and with it, for the cool days of autumn. Styles are simple, emphasizing the straight line, but smart details of finish and of fabric manipulation put the stamp of a new season on these simple coats.

Solid-color fabrics and two-toned checks and plaids are used singly or in combinations in the models for

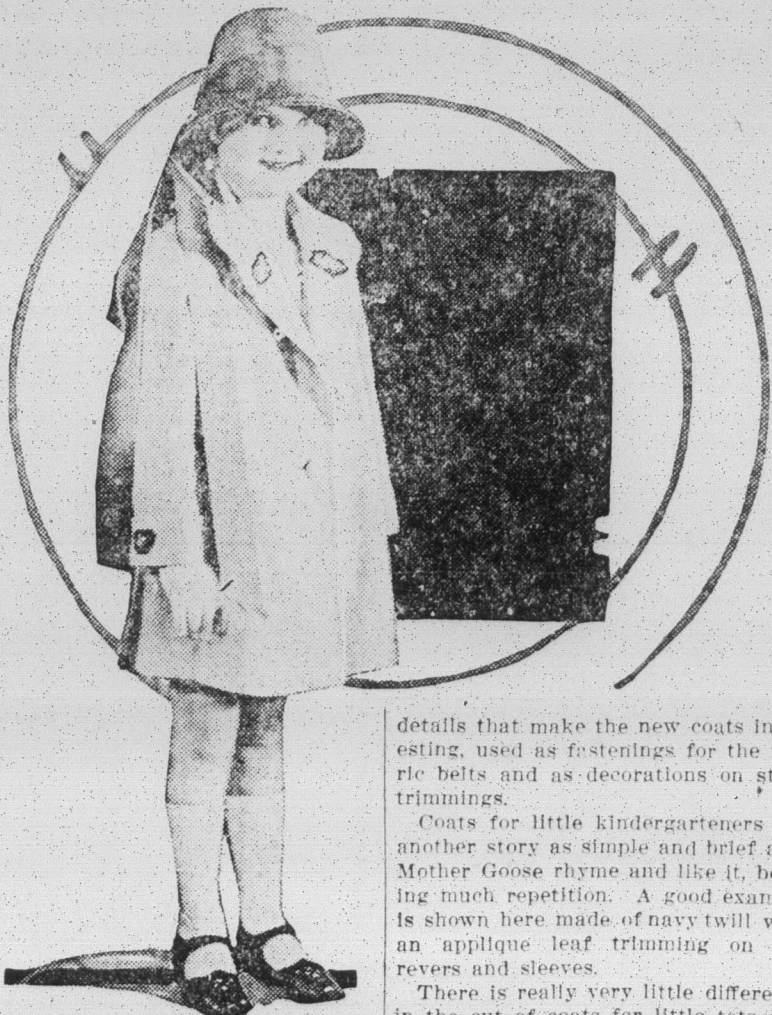

FOUR PARIS HATS

In designing superb millinery and this is easily proved by leaving those interested to guess which hats are French and which American in any mixed collection.

It will not take a minute to place the hat at the top of the group as an import. It is a turban made of ribbon ingeniously draped to form irregular upstanding folds at the front, where they are supported by a handsome metallic ornament. This chic tailored affair might be worn almost anywhere—it has so much style. At the left a fine pliable straw shape is veiled by lace gathered into a rosette at the side and finished with an enameled ornament. Another tailored hat at the right challenges comparison with its dressier sister. It is a straw shape with plaited and folded ribbon for trimming finished by jeweled ornaments. The last hat pictured shows juniors. The plaids and checks are featured and are shown in beautiful color combinations—as gray and coral or gray and purple. Inlays and facings of plain cloth are used on these plaids and checks with fine effect. In the solid-color fabrics certain red shades are liked (claret red among them), and they look particularly well with small fur collars or other touches of civet cat fur. Other furs used on coats for juniors are opossum, raccoon, skunk and Japanese fox, but the employment of fabric decorations is of newer interest.

As usual on straightline coats pockets are important and, with the fabric belt, are the designers' main device for decorative features. Pockets appear in the patch, flap and buttoned types and buttons are chosen in colors that blend with the fabric. Buckles as well as large buttons are among the just how much dignity a sailor shape can assume when it is collared by rich velvet ribbon and adorned by a choux in black and one in white velvet at the right side.

It takes the poise and assurance of middle life to carry off certain shapes and types in millinery. The new, high, square-crowned hats, that are so chic, are distinctly for the matron. For her very rich materials and intricate work are appropriate. Even the simpler felt hats of the "vagabond" details that make the new coats interesting, used as fastenings for the fabric belts and as decorations on strap trimmings.

Coats for little kindergarteners are another story as simple and brief as a Mother Goose rhyme and like it, bearing much repetition. A good example is shown here made of navy twill with an applique leaf trimming on the revers and sleeves.

There is really very little difference in the cut of coats for little tots and those for larger children, but the older little girls have a greater variety in choice of styles in pockets and neck treatments. For them the scarf collar and a variety of pockets are available. Turnover collars are popular on all children's coats. Very simple coats for the littlest girls are made double breasted and fastened with two large buttons, most of them have turnover collars and some of them have raglan sleeves. For girls in their early teens solid color and plaid coatings are about equally popular.

Old English Township Given Dignity of City

Salford, the great manufacturing township of Lancashire, England, which has benefited by the creation of the Manchester ship canal, is at last to be elevated to the dignity of a city, thus bringing it into line with its neighbor, Manchester. The two cities are divided only by the narrow and greasy waters of the River Irwell, crossed by many bridges. Victoria railway station, the most important of Manchester, really stands in Salford.

When Salford became one of the ancient hundreds (with power to administer laws, as in the case of municipal rights), Manchester was so poor, having been devastated by Danish invaders, that its territory was included in the jurisdiction of Salford. On the other hand, Manchester had ecclesiastical buildings when Salford had none, and not until 1634 did Salford own a chapel. Now it possesses a cathedral, in company with Manchester.

"I suppose you ran. Why didn't you fight back?"

Moon Lopsided

Prof. E. W. Brown, of Yale university has, after many calculations, come to the conclusion that the moon is lopsided with quite a pronounced bulge at the top. He explains the irregularity by saying that the heavier materials of its substance are what appear to the eye at the bottom and that a bulging of the upper surface is required if the moon is to balance itself in space.

FIVE POINTS CIVIC LEAGUE

The meeting of the Five Points Civic League at U-Ban-Os, Friday evening of last week was a well attended one. A noticeable sense of satisfaction pervaded through the meeting due to the completion of the paving of Kettner Boulevard and California Street through to Five Points, the realization long deferred, of an old dream of Middletown residents and business firms. It is now just a question of time until Harashty, McKee and Clayton streets are completely paved, making of Five Points a fully paved section.

Political Candidates Talk

Stephen Connell, candidate for the office of district attorney filled his appointment to speak on "The Present Crime Wave—Its Causes and Its Cure," and held his hearers attention from first to last.

George H. Cooley, candidate to succeed himself as constable of San Diego township was the next speaker. Mr. Cooley has been a resident of San Diego for 48 years and for 29 years of that time has been a peace officer. He voiced his emphatic pride in San Diego because it is the most law abiding city on the California coast.

E. E. Allen, president of the Ocean View Improvement Association was present and suggested it would be a good thing if there were a federation of local civic clubs. Improvements totaling millions of dollars were nearly always formulated by local civic clubs and a federation where various plans could be discussed and workable ideas exchanged should prove helpful to all.

Nolan Plan Endorsed

The League went on record as endorsing the Nolan Plan for the further development of San Diego, and as favoring Balboa Park as the site for the State College. President Carey was instructed to see the traffic department and ask that the foot of California street hill, the foot of McNeale street and Kettner Boulevard, where entering Pierce street, all be declared boulevard stops in the interest of the public safety.

Copies of "The Beach News" were distributed by the secretary who called attention to the possibilities of the paper as a news and as an advertising medium for Five Points.

New members enrolled were W. E. Lyon, manager of the Lyon Electrical Co., manufacturers of electric brooders, cook stoves and thermostats, which company has recently located here; W. T. Trukon, secretary of the Longshoremen's Association, both of whom spoke briefly in their interest in Five Points and their desire to co-operate with the Civic League.

DEMISE OF DR. LAUGHLIN

After suffering a paralytic stroke last Sunday, Dr. N. D. Laughlin died two days later at his summer home in Mission Beach. Dr. Laughlin was a graduate of Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio, and also of Garfield University. Dr. Laughlin recently started his 21st year of continuous osteopathic practice in San Diego. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Blanche J. Laughlin, and one son, Lawrence D. Laughlin, of San Diego, and three brothers, Dr. George M. Laughlin of Kirkville, Mo.; Dr. Harry Laughlin of Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, and Dr. W. R. Laughlin of Los Angeles.

are of the child until the state has time to make proper laws.

If mothers of blind babies will report them to Miss John Alden, 96 Fifth avenue, New York City, Blind Baby Dept., she will give all the information he can on how to handle the baby and prevent it growing up crippled and feeble minded. Mrs. Alden has been in the newspaper field for over forty years and has given her time gratis for the last twenty years to the legislation and care of the helpless blind baby.

"MY HOME TOWN"

Selling my Home Town in a five minute talk will be one of the features at the San Diego County Fair, under the auspices of the California Real Estate Association and the San Diego Realty Board.

A contest will be held September 17th at the County Fair in which the various districts in the County are asked to enter a speaker who in a five minute talk will tell of the development and achievement of his "Home Town" and district. The speaker adjudged to have best sold his community will be awarded a silver cup presented by John W. Snyder, realtor, member of the San Diego Realty Board and director of the California Real Estate Association. Mr. Snyder's purpose in donating this cup is to the end that we may all know more about the development of our County; to develop community interest and pride and bring the various districts of the County into more friendly co-operation and appreciation of each other.
